Continuation of the Articles of the Quadruple Alliance.

Separate and Secret Articles.

Art. I.] WHereas the most serene and most potent King of Great Britain, and the most serene and most potent the most Christian King, as likewise the High and Mighty Lords the States General of the United Netherlands, by virtue of the Treaty between them this Day concluded and signed, have agreed on certain Conditions, whereby a Peace may be made betwixt the most serene and most potent Emperour of the Romans, and the most serene and most potent King of Spain, as also between his sacred Imperial Majesty aforesaid, and the King of Sicily, (whom hereafter it is thought fit to call the King of Sardinia) which Conditions they have communicated to the three Princes aforesaid, as a Basis of the Peace to be established between them. His sacred Imperial Majesty, being moved by the most weighty Reasons which induced the King of Great Britain, the most Christian King, and the States General aforesaid, to take upon themselves so great and so wholsome a Work, and yielding to their circumspect and urgent Counsels and Perswasions, declares that he doth accept the said Conditions or Articles, none of them excepted, as fixed and immutable Conditions, according to which he agrees to conclude a perpetual Peace with the King of Spain, and the King of Sardinia.

Art. II.] But because the King of Spain and the King of Sardinia have not yet consented to the said Conditions, his Imperial Majesty, as likewise their Royal Britannick and most Christian Majesties, and the States General aforesaid, have agreed to allow them for consenting thereto, the space of three Months, to be computed from the Day of signing this present Treaty, as judging this Interval of Time sufficient for them duly to weigh the said Conditions, and finally determine and declare themselves whether they are willing to accept them as fixed and immutable Conditions of their Pacification with his Imperial Majesty, as from their Piety and Prudence it may be hoped they will do, and following the Example of his Imperial Majesty, that they will be induced to moderate their Passions, and out of Regard to Humanity, that they will prefer the publick Tranquility to their own private Opinions; and at the same time not only spare the Effusion of their own People's Blood, but avert the Calamities of War from the other Nations of Europe: To which End, their Britannick and most Christian Majesties, and the States General of the United Netherlands, will jointly and separately contribute their most effectual Offices, for inclining the said Princes to such an Acceptation.

Art. III.] But if, contrary to all Expectation of the Parties above contracting, and the Wishes of all Europe; the King of Spain, and the King of Sardinia, after the Term of three Months elapsed, should decline to accept the said Conditions of Pacification proposed betwixt them and his Imperial Majesty, since it is not reasonable that the Tranquility of Europe should depend upon their Refusal, or private Designs, their Britannick and most Christian Majesties, and the States General, do promise that they will join their Forces with those of his Imperial Majesty, in order to compel them to the Acceptance and Execution of the aforesaid Conditions. To which end, they will furnish his Imperial Majesty jointly and separately with the self same Succours which they have agreed upon for their reciprocal Defence by the 7th Article of the Treaty signed this Day, unanimously consenting that the most Christian King shall, instead of Soldiers contribute his Quota in Money. And if the Succours specified in the said 7th Article shall not be sufficient for compassing the End proposed, then the four contracting Parties shall without delay agree of more ample Succours to be furnished to his Imperial Majesty, and shall continue the same till his Imperial Majesty shall have reduced the Kingdom of Sicily, and till his Kingdoms and Provinces in Italy shall enjoy full Security. It is farther agreed, and that in express Words, that if, by Reason of the Succours which their Britannick and most Christian Majesties, and the Lords the States General shall furnish to his Imperial Majesty, by virtue, and in Execution of the present Treaty, the King's of Spain and Sardinia, or either of them, shall declare or wage War against any one of the said Contracters, either by attacking them in their Dominions, or by violently detaining their Subjects or Ships, their Goods and Merchandizes by Sea or Land, in that case the two other of the contracting Powers shall immediately declare War against the said Kings of Spain and Sardinia, or against him of the two Kings, who shall have denounced or waged War against any one of the said contracting Powers; nor shall they lay down their Arms before the Emperour shall be possess'd of Sicily, and made secure with Regard to his Kingdoms and Provinces in Italy, and likewise just Satisfaction shall be given to him of the three contracting Powers, who shall have been invaded or suffered Damage by reason of the present Treaty.

Art. IV.] When only one of the two Kings aforesaid who have not consented to the Conditions of Peace to be made with his Imperial Majesty shall accept them, he likewise shall join himself with the four contracting Powers, to compel him that shall refuse the said Conditions, and shall furnish his Quota of Succours according to the Distribution to be made thereupon.

Art. V.] If the Catholick King out of regard to the Publick Good, and a Perswasion that an Exchange of the Kingdoms of Sicily and Sardinia is necessary for the Maintenance of the General Peace, shall agree thereto and embrace the Conditions of Peace to be made with the Emperour as above; and on the other hand, if the King of Sardinia shall reject such an Exchange, and persist in retaining Sicily; in that case the King of Spain shall restore Sardinia to the Emperour, who (saving his supreme Dominion over it) shall put the same into the Custody of the most serene King of Great Britain, and of the Lords the States General, for so long time, till Sicily being reduced, the King of Sardinia shall sign the above-mentioned Conditions of a Treaty with the Emperour, and shall agree to accept the Kingdom of Sardinia as an Equivalent for the Kingdom of Sicily; which being done, he shall be admitted into the Possession thereof by the King of Great Britain and the States General. But if his Imperial Majesty should not be able to conquer Sicily, and reduce it under his Power, in that case the King of Great Britain, and the States General, shall restore to him the Kingdom of Sardinia; and in the mean time his Imperial Majesty shall enjoy the Revenues of the said Kingdom, which shall exceed the Charge of keeping it.

Art. VI.] But in case the King of Sardinia shall consent to the said Exchange, and the King of Spain shall refuse, in this case the Emperour being aided by the Succours of the rest of the Contractors, shall attack Sardinia, with which Succours they on their Part promise to furnish him; as the Emperour promises on his part, that he will not lay down his Arms till he shall have possessed himself of the whole Kingdom of Sardinia, which immediately after such Possession he shall give up to the King of Sardinia.

Art. VII.] But if both the Kings of Spain and Sardinia shall oppose the Exchange of Sicily and Sardinia, the Emperour, together with the Succours of the Allies, shall in the first place attack Sicily, and having reduced it, he shall turn his Arms against Sardinia with such a Number of Forces, besides the Succours of the Allies, as he shall judge necessary for both Expeditions: And, having likewise reduced Sardinia, his Imperial Majesty shall commit the Custody thereof to the King of Great Britain, and to the Lords the States General, till the King of Sardinia shall have signed the Conditions of Peace to be made with the Emperour, and shall consent to accept the Kingdom of Sardinia as an Equivalent for the Kingdom of Sicily, which then is to be deliver'd up to him by his Britannick Majesty and the States General, and in the mean time his Imperial Majesty shall enjoy the Revenues of that Kingdom, which shall exceed the Charge of keeping it.

Art. VIII.] In case the Catholick King and the King of Sardinia, or either of them, shall refuse to accept and execute the abovesaid Conditions of Peace to them proposed, and for that Reason the four Contracting Powers should be compelled to proceed against them, or either of them, by open Force; it is expresly covenanted, that the Emperour (what Progress soever his Arms may make against the said two Kings, or either of them,) shall be content, and ought to acquiesce in the Advantages, by mutual Consent allotted to him in the said Conditions, Power nevertheless being reserved to his Imperial Majesty of recovering the Rights which he pretends to have over that part of the Dutchy of Milan, which the King of Sardinia now Possesses, either by War, or by a Treaty of Peace subseqent upon such War; Power being likewise reserved to the other three Allies, in case such a War should be undertaken against the Kings of Spain and Sardinia, to agree with his Imperial Majesty in appointing some other Prince, in whose Favour his Imperial Majesty may dispose of that part of the Dutchy of Montferrat, now possessed poſſeſſed by the King of Sardinia, in Excluſion of the ſaid King; and to what other Prince or Princes he may, with the Conſent of the Empire, grant the Letters of Expectative, containing the eventual Inveſtiture of the States now poſſeſſed by the Grand Duke of Tuſcany, and by the Duke of Parma and Placentia, in Excluſion of the Sons of the preſent Queen of Spain. This Declaration being added, that in no Time or Caſe whatſoever, either his Imperial Majeſty, or any Prince of the Houſe of Auſtria, who ſhall poſſeſs the Kingdoms and Provinces of Italy, may aſſert or gain to himſelf the ſaid Dutchies of Tuſcany and Parma.
